13 Places to Get Some of the Best Breakfast in San Diego

Good morning, San Diego! It's time to wake up and smell the bacon and bennies with a trip to this city's best breakfast spots. Whether you wish to awaken with hash and eggs or a mile-high pile of pancakes, San Diego is booming with fantastic breakfast eateries. We discovered that this morning meal may also be the most fun of all. Plates are larger, menus are more radical and the world seems just a little brighter at the start of the day. Our breakfast expedition stretched from Encinitas to Downtown San Diego and uncovered lively communities of people gathering together in the A.M. for fantastic sunrise food.

Native Knowledge: Breakfast Republic has a rotating list of 20 beers on tap and you can order beer flights with your meal.

Fig Tree Café

Wake Up With: Breakfast Sushi

The Fig Tree Café has multiple locations here in San Diego, but my favorite has to be the one located in Pacific Beach, a little farther down Cass Street & North of Garnet Avenue. Not only are they serving up some delicious breakfast, but the atmosphere is also really amazing there. Sitting outside on the patio will have you enjoying your breakfast surrounded by foliage and canopies of trees and different plants, which always brings a nice vibe to any kind of morning. While there make sure you order their Wally Burrito which contains their house made potatoes, which are ALWAYS the right choice. Pair this breakfast with one of their house-made antioxidant mimosa and you'll be sure to have the perfect start to your day. Looking for something a little more adventurous? Try their breakfast sushi, something I can almost guarantee you won't find anywhere else.

Native Knowledge: The Fig Tree now offers the option to sub out their house made potatoes for their new arugula, truffle oil and parmesan cheese potatoes and it'll be the best $2 upgrade you've ever made in your life.
